

General Terms and Conditions Participation and Cancellation Conditions Online Academy Businessmind

Your registration will be binding for both parties upon sending a written confirmation (by e-mail).

Payment of the course fee 3 weeks before the start of the seminar is a prerequisite for participation.

Cancellation by the participant

From 4 weeks before the seminar begins, we charge 50% of the seminar fee in the event of cancellation, and from 2 weeks before the full seminar fee is due. If a replacement participant is reported, the cancellation fee does not apply. Cancellations must be made in writing.

Cancellation by BusinessMind

Cancellations by BusinessMind will be communicated to the participants at least 4 weeks before the seminar begins. This does not apply to illness-related absences and circumstances that BusinessMind cannot influence. BusinessMind cannot be held responsible for the failure of an event to take place.

Liability

The principle of personal responsibility applies. Each exercise or task is voluntary and at the participants' own discretion.

We commit ourselves to use the necessary care and the personal as well as safety-technical requirements for the execution of the respective exercises.

In particular, if the participants contravene the instructions and safety instructions given by the trainer, or if they knowingly hide essential information on the state of health of the participants, we accept no liability for damage or injury.

We accept no liability for the clothes and equipment brought by the participants.

Insurance

Health and accident insurance for seminar participants is not included in seminars, training courses and workshops.

Confidentiality

BusinessMind and any cooperation partners undertake to treat all data and information that comes to light through the activity as confidential and not to pass it on to third parties.
